ALDERGROVE YOUTH DROWNS IN MILL LAKE

The first drowning fatality to occur in this district for several years happened on Sunday last, at the Abbotsford mill lake, when Raymond Mervyn of Aldergrove lost his life while bathing.

Mervyn, who was not a very strong swimmer, was astride a shingle bolt, at the west end of the lake, when the log turned over, throwing him into the water. He evidently got excited, and sank to the bottom of the lake, where he became tangled in weeds.

There were several others swimming nearby, but they were unable to render immediate assistance.

Nearby help was summoned, and the body was recovered about half an hour later. Local police officers and others applied artificial respiration for a long time, but their efforts were unsuccessful.

An inquest was held in Abbotsford on Monday, when a verdict of "accidental death" was returned.

The deceased, who was 21 years old was born at Salmon Arm, but with his family had lived at Aldergrove for the past three years, moving there from Peardonville. Surviving are his parents, two brothers and four sisters.

Oddly enough, the boy was holder of a Humane Society medal, awarded in 1931, when he and his sister were instrumental in saving four lives at Crescent Beach.

The funeral is to be held today, Wednesday, from Henderson's funeral home to Aberdeen cemetery.

CANADIAN LEGION NOTES

On Sunday next our local Branch of the Legion will hold its Annual Memorial Service at the Cenotaph. For details please see the advt. in this issue. We, the officers and members of this branch give you all a most hearty invitation to attend and pay your respects to the memory of our fallen comrades.

As the years pass by the number of our comrades who rest in our Soldiers Plot grows larger, and all we ask is that you, and all of us who are left attend the Memorial Service and together we will pay our respects to the memory of those who fell in Flanders Fields, and those who have since passed away.

If you bring a floral offering, however small it will be gratefully received, and after the service we will decorate the graves of our comrades who lie in the soldier's plot. A collection will be taken in aid of our blinded comrades.

This is the week of the unveiling of the Great War Memorial on Vimy Ridge, erected in memory of the Canadians. On that memorial are carved the names of over 11,000, Canadian Soldiers. Many of them were our personal friends, if not our own relatives. They were "one of us". One and all, they were our comrades.

We have set aside the Sunday nearest the 4th of August, as Memorial Day in honour of all of our comrades who died "over there" and of those who have since gone to their rest, and we again ask you to attend and with us pay your respect to their memory.

On behalf of the officers and members. F. MARSHALL, President

Blaze Destroys Home

A one-room building occupied by W. Good on Oscar street, past the Abbotsford Theatre, was destroyed by fire last Wednesday night. As adjacent buildings are of wood construction, there was at first some fear of the blaze spreading, but, fortunately, no further damage was done.

L. Cruthers of Vancouver visited relatives and friends in Abbotsford at the week-end.

Mr. W. Wathen of New Westminster visited friends in Abbotsford over the week-end.

Florence Scott of Vancouver has been visiting Hazel Buck for the past two weeks.

A bus-load of local residents attended the Brackman-Ker picnic held at Bowen Island today (Wednesday). Connections were made with the boat at New Westminster.

Cars Collide on Highway

Cars driven by A. Knox, Sumas Prairie, and J. Taylor, Huntingdon, collided on the Sumas highway near Rudge's last week, but fortunately, all occupants escaped with minor injuries. The Vancouver car was badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton are visiting in Vancouver for a time.

Daly's softball team are scheduled to meet Sumas in a game on the Jubilee grounds, Thursday evening.

Mrs. G. J. Morgan and son Kenneth of Vancouver were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark for a few days last week.

Drive Them Off The Highways

Some time ago it was predicted that with the advent of the warm summer weather which tempts people to enjoy outdoor life as much as possible the newspapers would carry stories of automobile accidents, recording the deaths of some and injury of a great many more.

The prediction is a safe one and is already being amply fulfilled. Even before the hottest summer months had arrived a number of smashes with their accompanying fatalities and injuries were reported in screaming headlines in the daily press.

Eye witnesses of one accident in one of the prairie provinces report that a couple of men were driving a brand new car along a crowded highway towards one of the cities on a Sunday evening. With the speedometer recording 75 and 80 miles an hour they flashed past scores of cars laden with men, women and children returning from a day at the summer resorts.

As the speeding car tore past other automobiles, some of them travelling at almost equally unreasonable speeds under such traffic conditions, the occupants turned round and waved a derisive "ha, ha", gloating in their ability to "beat the other fellow." The inevitable happened. The driver lost control, or there was a blow out and the two occupants completed their journey to the city in an ambulance, broken limbs and pain-twisted features bearing mute testimony to their agonies. The erstwhile handsome car lay partly on the highway and partly in the ditch wrecked beyond the semblance of a vehicle.

Fortunately in this particular instance the two occupants of the car were the only persons to suffer as a result of their recklessness, but for an hour or more they had jeopardized the lives and limbs of scores, perhaps hundreds of people using the highways in a legitimate and sane manner, including many women and children.

Such recklessness on the highway is nothing less than criminal and those who come to grief as a result of such misuse of the roads and motor vehicles have only themselves to blame. A worse feature, however, is the menace of such wild driving to other people. Even at moderate speeds of 35 and 40 miles an hour the highways are none too safe, but with speed-crazed individuals at the wheel the roads become potential and sometimes actual shambles.

While the police are on the watch for reckless fools and do all they can to protect legitimate users of the highways there are not enough of them on the job to ensure complete protection and it is doubtful if the provinces can afford to employ sufficient patrolmen to furnish immunity from all dangerous pests.

Under such circumstances the only safeguard for reasonable people is to arouse public opinion against criminals of this type to the extent that sane drivers will be willing to report them to the police and appear in court to testify against them. Such complaints, supported by adequate testimony, should inevitably result in cancellations of drivers' licenses, or at least suspension for a considerable period of time.

After all, the sensible driver, who reports the action of crazy drivers who endanger the lives of others is merely carrying out the law of self-preservation and is doing a public service in the interests of his fellow men and women. No one would hesitate to report a wild man running amuck with a knife or an axe, yet a wild man at the wheel of a powerful automobile is a much greater potential danger to the public.

No person should feel a bit squeamish about reporting dangerous violations of the laws of safety or harbor the notion that because he and his family have been safely passed it is none of his business. If two or three drivers report the recklessness of another their testimony should be ample to ensure conviction. If half a dozen or more report a case, the evidence would undoubtedly be regarded as overwhelming.

Not very long ago newspapers reported the organization of a new safety body, the Dominion Automobile Safety Council Inc., with headquarters at Montreal, coupled with the announcement that its chief function is to promote safety measures by educational means designed to cut down the motor car accident toll throughout Canada.

Such an organization can perform a very useful function to society in arousing public opinion and assist in dispelling the comparative apathy with which the general public appears to regard a very important question. The proposal that the co-operation of the driving public to report all cases of wild driving on the highways be sought, might well be recommended. Such drivers should be driven off the highways.

Not An Ordinary Search

Two Victoria horticulturists have set out on a 3,000-mile trek to look for wild flowers. But it is no ordinary wildflower that attracts Edmund H. and Joseph A. Lohbrunner to the Arctic and sub-Arctic part of the Yukon and Alaska. Rare anemone, polemonium and dwarf willows an inch in height will be sought during the summer adventure.

The discovery of the earliest known written psalm was recently announced. A cuneiform inscription of about 15 B.C. which has puzzled Syria in reality the earliest known written psalm.

Long Service Ended

With approximately 140,000 miles behind him, travelled behind a slowly plodding horse, Henry Gingerich of Baden, Ont., has made his last trip as rural mail carrier after 16 years continuous service over a daily 28-mile route. Only twice in that time did he fail to make his round and storms were responsible both times.

For writing one of the world's best sellers, "Black Beauty", the Englishwoman, Anna Sewell, received only $100. On a straight royalty basis, it would have returned her upward of $300,000.

Motor Roads In Britain

Increase In Traffic Is Causing Worry To Authorities

It is said that the British Isles have never been known better than they are today by more of those who inhabit them; and small wonder in view of the means of locomotion available, observes the London correspondent of the New York Sun.

Road traffic has more than doubled in five years. In Great Britain there are 178,000 miles of public highways, of which 43,000 are classified roads. The total number of vehicles using them last year was 2,581,000, as compared with only 873,700 in 1921. One person in every 19 now possesses an automobile. But there are 10,000,000 or more cyclists also using the roads.

According to Hore-Belisha, minister of transport, Britain, in the 20th century, has become the "most densely vehicled" country in the world, having 23 registered motor vehicles to the square mile as compared with seven in the United States. The increase has been so rapid, he contends, that engineers and surveyors have not been able to evolve the means of assuring the free flow of traffic in conditions of method and safety.

In the next five years $450,000,000 is to be expended on roads, and in that period it is also planned to construct 230 miles of cycle tracks and 750 miles of dual carriageways. Although increased safety for the cyclists will be assured by construction of cycle tracks such as are already widely in use on the continent, many of the cyclists resent the efforts to circumscribe their use of ordinary traffic arteries.

Japanese Zeppelin Service

Japan May Purchase Two Or More German Dirigibles

Japanese sponsors of ambitious plans for a trans-Pacific Zeppelin service found themselves faced with severe obstacles.

It was learned authoritatively, however, that the plans had not been abandoned.

High aviation sources said one group proposes three routes:

1. An airship service between Tokyo and Hsingking, capital of Manchukuo.
2. An airship line connecting Tokyo with Singapore or Batavia, via Shanghai and Hong Kong.
3. An aerial route from Tokyo to San Francisco or Los Angeles, via Honolulu.

All three schemes call for purchase of two or more German Zeppelins. A German dirigible expert and air pilot called in for advice returned to Germany without, so far as could be learned, reaching any agreement with the Japanese interests. The sponsors were informed Germany could not lend Japan any of her zeppelin experts and pilots except for a very limited time.

Skeena River Floods

Church Is Wrecked But Bible Left On Table Is Undamaged

The flood waters of the Skeena river wrecked the interior of the March Memorial church at Usk, situated on the river bank, but left the Bible undamaged on a small table, it was revealed in stories brought out from the recently flooded area.

The church organ was overturned, chairs were scattered about the building and the linen cover over the table on which the Bible stood was muddy.

Another story from Usk concerns three hens that perched in high branches of a tree.

After the water dropped the hens were found under the trees where they had established a community nest in which were found four new-laid eggs.

Oriental Figure Of Speech

Story Of Jonah Is Mistaken Translation Claims Language Expert

The story of Jonah's three-day stay inside a whale arose from a mistaken translation centuries ago, according to data submitted by George M. Lamsa of Washington.

Writing in "Gospel Light," Lamsa, an expert in the Aramaic language of Bible times, said:

"According to the interpretation of dreams in the East, fish or whale means trouble, disturbance and indecision. Jonah in the whale is an Oriental hyperbole, and means Jonah is in trouble, just as an American would say, 'he is in a hole,' or 'he is out of a hole.'"

"This American slang would be confusing to an Easterner, just as the term 'Jonah in the Whale' would be to a Westerner, unfamiliar with Oriental speech."

FORD GETS DEGREE

Years of work in the manufacturing field, resulted in educational recognition for Henry Ford, when the automobile magnate received an honorary degree of doctor of engineering at Michigan State College at East Lansing.

Should Be Other Ways

But Increased Taxation Appears Only Remedy For Expenditures

For the current fiscal year, the Finance Minister expects a deficit of "slightly less than $100,000,000."

These are astronomical figures! Why, in 1896—only 40 years ago—the total expenditures of the Dominion Government, chargeable to consolidated fund, amounted to a "mere" $36,000,000. At the turn of the century in 1901 the figure was $46,000,000. And on the eve of the Great War, in 1913, total expenditures amounted to $112,000,000—or just an even fifty million less than last year's deficit!

Is increased taxation the only remedy? Is there no room for greater economies in these times when every private business—every citizen—must economize?

Has every loop-hole of waste and extravagance been stopped?—Herald.

Millions Of Words Used During Session Of Parliament

During the recent session of parliament, lasting less than five months, members of the House of Commons orated approximately 3,240,000 words while senators were comparatively reticent with little more than 500,000 words recorded by Hansard.

Special committees of the house whose proceedings were recorded used more than 3,000 pages of Hansard with something like 2,230,000 words of evidence and argument, that which investigated radio having the largest volume—about 500,000 words.

Reporting these proceedings and the general activities of the government and the members of parliament, The Canadian Press sent over its automatic printers to its members throughout the Dominion well over 600,000 words.

Probably well over 1,000,000 additional words were sent over the telegraphic wires by the score of special correspondents who are representing individual newspapers in the press gallery. The house of commons was in session 90 days.

Dame Of St. John

Lady Tweedsmuir Has Been Appointed To Order Of St. John Of Jerusalem

Lady Tweedsmuir has been appointed a dame of grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, the Westminster Gazette announced.

Persons admitted to this order "are such persons, being subjects of the British crown, and professing the Christian faith, as have performed or are prepared to perform good services for the order and its objects." The objects of the order are the encouragement and promotion of ambulance, hospital and other charitable work.

The order received a royal charter from Queen Victoria in 1888 as a revival of the military and religious grand priory dissolved by Queen Elizabeth in 1599. His Majesty the King is the sovereign head of the order.

Speakers Held To Time

Convention Of Health Authorities Run By Light Signals

A system of automatic lights similar to ordinary street traffic signals was used to keep speakers in order at the convention of the state and provincial health authorities of North America held recently in Vancouver.

Five minutes before the scheduled time limit of each speaker a green light flashed on the box-light apparatus set on his table. With one minute to go a yellow light appeared. When a red light came on time was up and whether or not he was finished the speaker had to sit down.

As a result of their signal system, the convention authorities were able to run their program on schedule.

Not Giving Up Flying

Hollick-Kenyon Returns To Pilot's Job After Holiday

Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, Antarctic flyer, isn't quitting flying for farming.

The reason he said, is that he "has to make a living." By inference he left it that his prospects of doing just that on an Okanagan fruit farm were not convincing. After a holiday with his wife and children at Ewing's Landing, B.C., he returned to Winnipeg and his pilot's job with Canadian Airways.

The possibilities of using cotton in road building may provide a market for two to three million bales a year.

Star Explosion

Light Reaches Mother Earth After Journey Of 2,000 Years

Old Mother Earth watched from a big seat one of the rarest shows since the universe began—a star explosion that happened long before lehem.

the shepherds saw the star of Bethlehem off in an outer rim of space—so far that the earth and the sun are next door neighbors by comparison—the star "blew up" some 2,000 or 3,000 years ago.

Civilizations rose and fell, but even light—travelling at 186,300 miles a second—could not give the earth the news of the blast until recently.

Man had suspected for a month that something had happened out there in the Milky Way, for a scientist in Holland had reported that cosmic rays—children of disintegrating matter—had been travelling to earth in greater and greater numbers from that direction.

On the night of June 28th, an amateur astronomer at Delphos, Ohio, L. C. Peltier, peeped through his telescope and saw a bright star that wasn't there the night before.

It was so bright he could see it through the telescope. It lay on the boundary line between two constellations, Cepheus and La Ceta, which are in the northwestern sky at sunset and directly overhead in early morning.

At Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, Dr. Otto Struve announced the star had been on astronomers' maps since 1893, and had not gotten any brighter by 1930, when its picture was last snapped.

Yacht To Be Scuttled

Famous Cutter Britannia To Be Sunk In English Channel

The famous royal racing cutter Britannia will be spared the indignity of the shipbreakers' yard and will be scuttled in the English channel.

Official orders for the sinking of the yacht, so closely identified with the late King George, were issued recently. A month ago it was announced the sails and rigging would be sold.

The Britannia was built in 1893 for King Edward VII. when he was Prince of Wales. The famous cutter won 231 first prizes and 129 other awards in 625 races in the course of 43 years of racing.

Legend Came True

Water Filled Pool In Devonshire When King George Died

The age old legend, "And when the pool fills with water . . ." came true at North Tawton, Devonshire, when King George V. died. The legend says that when the spring-fed bath pool there fills with water, a member of the royal family will die. The spring filled just before the death of the Prince Consort, Albert, husband of Queen Victoria, and of Queen Victoria herself and the Duke of Clarence, first son of King Edward VII. Three days after King George V. lay dead, the water vanished and cattle are grazing there once more.

Bird Foretells Rain

Rafael Ruesga, Mexican consul at Tampa, Florida, has a bird that tells him when it's going to rain, but he wants to get rid of it. The bird is a Mexican road-runner. Its bones ache in damp weather, Ruesga says, causing it to utter sharp cries before and during rain storms. But the bird disturbs his sleep, he said.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR RE-REGISTRATING RELIEF CASES

Announcement is made from Ottawa that before embarking on the task of re-registering all recipients of unemployment relief in Canada, Provincial Government officers will confer with the National Employment Commission to discuss procedure and make arrangements for a speedy compilation of the returns.

The commission invited each province to name an officer to conduct the registration and is providing forms for the purpose.

Representing this province, J. T. Gawthrop of the provincial department of labor.

The proposed registration will take place around August 1. Returns will form the basis of a permanent system of registration and will be kept up to date by additions and deletions of names each month.

The tabulation is designed to give a human rather than a statistical picture of the relief problem in Canada. Such information as age, sex, occupation, qualifications, employability and domestic condition of all relief recipients will be collected.

Use Your Camera for Other Hobbies

An amateur photographer-entomologist had fun making this picture of a "Grasshopper Night Club" (note the fan dancer). He used amateur equipment. It was a time exposure with a 25-cent floodlight for illumination.

HAVE you another hobby besides your camera? If so, why not introduce them to each other and double the pleasure? Why not make photographic souvenirs of the changes in your garden, your antique collection, the growth of your miniature railroad, your new ship models, or what have you?

We know a man whose other hobby is entomology—bug-hunting to his friends. He gets a tremendous lot of fun photographing his insect specimens.

Some of his pictures of these tiny subjects are remarkable. The most surprising thing about them is that they were made with the simple apparatus used by the amateur photographer. Not only does he make serious "portraits" of individual insects, but, having a flare for the dramatic and the amusing, he photographs groups of them theatrically posed to represent the goings on of human beings, as in the picture of the grasshopper night club above; or it may be a June-bug wedding, a tumble-bug football game, spider spooks haunting a graveyard, grasshoppers playing leapfrog—he finds the subject possibilities are endless. The pictures he displays are, of course, enlargements.

You don't have to be an entomologist to make pictures like this yourself, if you, or some one for you, will collect the insects. Here's what he does:

He builds a "set," a la Hollywood, to fit into an imaginary box 15 inches long, 10 wide and 12 high, sometimes using fine grass, small stones, twigs, etc., for scenery. Admitting that he has not yet been able to persuade his insect actors to play leapfrog or otherwise perform at his bidding, he has them chloroformed by the druggist from whom he buys his films; then with quick-drying household cement he mounts them on his stage in the poses he wants.

To light the scene he finds a single floodlight bulb in a reflector is effective. The light should be about two feet from the set, placed high for simulating daylight or low in front for a dramatic effect. Stop the camera lens down to f.8, put on a portrait attachment and then photograph your 15 by 10 by 12-inch scene close up, according to instructions with the attachment. Fine grained panchromatic film is to be preferred for sparkling results in enlarging. Exposures will vary with the scene; so, until experience has been gained, three or four exposures (say, 2, 4 and 8 seconds) had better be made and the best one chosen for enlargement.

Our entomologist-camerist says you will have so much fun making these pictures that, even if you don't care to become an entomologist, an ambition to become a theatrical producer will surely have to be curbed.

The new Dominion parasite laboratory, the only one of its kind in Canada, erected at a cost of $85,000, was officially opened at Belleville in the presence of many outstanding entomologists of the United States and Canada.

London's Latest Fad

Pictures Made From Butterfly Wings Are All The Rage

London society's latest fad is pictures made almost entirely from butterfly wings. "Suaj," the artist has been buying old collections of these wings. He has completed a portrait of Queen Mary in the new medium. The dress consists of 600 butterflies' wings, all taken from collections date as far back as 1865. A striking portrait of Princess Elizabeth, entirely from butterflies caught in the nineteenth century has been bought by the Duchess of York. Subjects that lend themselves particularly to this type of art are ships, angel fish, period costumes and coats of arms. Some of the costumes require 1,000 wings.

Alberta Bird Sanctuary

George Bendick, A Lover Of Birds, Dies At Age Of 79

Known in many parts of Canada as founder of the Bendick bird sanctuary near Edmonton, George Bendick, 79, died at his home in Leduc. Forty-four years ago Mr. Bendick and his wife, who survives, fled on the homestead now noted as the Grath Side game farm where rare birds from many countries are kept. Visitors from all parts of the continent had inspected the farm, one of the show places of the province.

Wish Of Centenarian

On the occasion of her 101st birthday anniversary, Mrs. M. A. Hills, an Englishwoman living in Auckland, New Zealand, received a cable from King Edward. "Bless him! I hope to see him married before I die," was her comment.

Friendship Of A Dog

Many People Consider It A Thing To Be Valued

A teacher in an Eastern city absented herself from her classes a day and a half because of grief over the death of a pet dog. A doctor is quoted as saying that "any teacher who cannot bear up under the sorrow of the death of a dog is in no physical shape to teach school."

People who have dogs, or who have lost them, will not all assent to this view. In many homes the dog is a real "person," a member of the family circle, a friend as well as a pet. Some say that affection should not be lavished upon dumb animals, but the fact is that they inspire affection, and give, in return for it, a grateful faithfulness which human beings do not always exhibit.

It is quite possible that a school teacher, losing one of these friends, would, whatever her physical condition, be incapacitated for her duties. Whether the resulting absence should be at her own or the municipality's expense is another matter altogether. But it is a mistake to suppose that the death of a dog will not seriously affect normal people to whom it has been companion and friend.

Pioneer Navigation

Voyage From England Took Five Months In Early Days

Britain's Cunarder R.M.S. Queen Mary is a long way removed from the "Tweed," the ship by which he first left England's shore affirms Alf. Fisher, 78-year-old pioneer to this country, who celebrated his birthday at Saltcoats, Sask.

Seventy-one years ago—two years before Confederation—Mr. Fisher disembarked at Quebec from the four-masted schooner on June 18. The boat had set sail on January 10, five months and a week before.

During the 71 succeeding years Mr. Fisher has seen a varied life in Canada. A Northwest Rebellion veteran, he saw service in South Africa and enlisted for service in the Great War. He also spent some years with the Mounted Police Force.

Only seven when he crossed the ocean, Mr. Fisher recalls vividly the welcome change in diet which Quebec fruit made after five months of salt pork. His seventh birthday two days after landing was a riot of fun amidst a pile of logs on the old wharf. These things stick in his mind, he says.

The Canadian Nickel

When King's Head Changed Other Side Could Be Improved

While the Bank of Canada, the nature of its notes, and the question of the images and superscriptions to be employed on Canadian money are under discussion, we may as well record our view, on aesthetic grounds, that the first Canadian coin to be altered by the substitution of the head of the present monarch for that of his predecessor should most decidedly be the large nickel. The obverse of this coin in its present design is probably the ugliest and cheapest-looking impression to be found in the entire British Empire. Considering that the coin is made out of one of Canada's most important metal products, and that it is one which we all have to use a great deal, it ought certainly to be a piece of work of which the nation can reasonably feel proud; whereas nobody with any aesthetic sensibilities can possibly feel other than grieved about the present Canadian large nickel. — Toronto Saturday Night.

Many Divorces

All Divorce Applications Came From Quebec This Year

Divorces granted by parliament this session totalled 40, an increase of 10 over last session, Senator Lendrum McMeans (Cons., Winnipeg) told the senate. All the divorce applications had come from Quebec province, he said.

Divorces were granted this session to 11 husbands and 29 wives.

A Good Fish Story

As William Jones, fish market proprietor, in Edmonton, opened an 18-inch long pike recently, he found a two-week-old duck in the stomach of the fish. The duck, measuring nine inches from back to feet, was firmly embedded in the stomach and was extracted only with the aid of a butcher's knife. The pike was caught in Birch Lake, 90 miles east of Edmonton.

North Dakota's vast wheat fields have suffered more seriously from stem rust than wheat in any other state.

FRENCH CABINET INCLUDES A WOMAN

For the first time in the history of French politics, a woman was given a post in the Government when Leon Blum took office. Above we see Madame Suzanne Lacore, French Under-secretary of State for Child Welfare, standing beside Premier Blum on the steps at the Elysee, Paris.

Solar Eclipse Observations

Radio Impulses Are Reflected To Earth By Sun Radiations

Indications that the earth's electrified roof, which, many miles above the surface of the globe, reflects back radio impulses, is formed mostly as a result of ultra-violet sun radiations appeared in preliminary results of the solar eclipse observations.

Prof. Boris Gerasimovich, head of the Soviet eclipse expeditions, said he had been informed that indications of a decisive influence of these radiations in the formation of the electrified roof or ionosphere had been obtained in a quick examination of results. He warned, however, that the information still had to be checked.

Prof. K. Kessenik, head of the Soviet expedition at Tomsk, said a great change was noticed in the behaviour of the ionosphere beginning 15 minutes before the total eclipse, when the audibility of radio signals was sharply increased.

The new star of the constellation Cepheus was seen clearly by astronomers at Ak Bulak.

Italians Honored

Dr. Marconi, Inventor Of Wireless, Is Named Rear Admiral

Dr. Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, was named a rear admiral of the Italian navy by Premier Mussolini. Il Duce also appointed Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate to the League of Nations, to the rank of rear admiral. Marshal Emilio de Bono, who commanded the first stages of the Italian campaign against Ethiopia, was made a Chevalier of the Grand Cross of the Military Order of Savoy.

Snake Worship In India

Many Families Encourage Reptile To Live In Home

It is strange but true that millions of people in India worship snakes—live snakes of every variety. Not only are there snake groves in every little village, but in some homes the family snake roves about the hearth unmolested. India's Millions gives some authenticated facts:

Here snakes are encouraged to dwell, in order to ensure freedom for the family from many evils and misfortunes—leprosy, and the invasion of the house and garden by harmful snakes. The lack of children is another of the misfortunes entailed by any failure to perform regular worship in honor of the family snakes.

There is a "serpent grove," where the worshipper may repair. Shrines are in the form of a hooded cobra, carved from granite. Sacrifices and elaborate ceremonies attend its installation upon a low platform.

Imperial Conference

To Be Held In London After Coronation Next May

Prime Minister Baldwin announced in the House of Commons, that an Imperial conference would be held in London next May immediately following the coronation of the King. The coronation will take place May 12 of next year.

A great gathering of political leaders from Canada, the other Dominions and all parts of the Empire is expected in London for the occasion.

The last regular Imperial conference in London was in 1930. An Imperial economic conference was held at Ottawa in 1932.

Aluminum is more abundant throughout the world than any other metal. It forms about 8 per cent. of the earth's crust.

Cuts Spoilage Costs

New Lethal Lamp Valuable To Packers And Bakers

A lethal lamp whose rays kill kitchen germs that spoil food was demonstrated for the first time at a meeting of the American Institute in New York.

The lamp generates its rays by electricity flowing through a gas-filled bulb. It gives little visible light, is not much warmer than the hand, and generates ultra-violet rays which take but a few seconds to destroy germs.

The rays will kill larger pests, too, up to the size of flies, but take a fairly long time. It was announced that no harmful effects are known on human beings, and that these rays cause no sunburn.

The lamps were shown by Dr. Robert F. James and Dr. Harvey C. Rentschler of the Westinghouse Lamp Co.

"High-hung" meat, the table delicacy made by ageing beef until its outside is black, is saved by the rays from half the loss which makes it expensive. This loss is due to germs which necessitate trimming away 30 per cent. of the meat before serving.

Dr. James said that the rays, used in refrigeration, enable packers to use temperatures 10 to 15 degrees higher, due to the sterilization of the air.

He reported that a baking company had cut its spoilage of cakes from about 15 per cent. average to 1 or 2 per cent. by using the rays to sterilize the surface of the cakes. Bread kept in the rays remained fresh for two days instead of one.

House flies die if they remain in the rays several minutes.

To Protect The Public

More Intensive Drive To Eradicate Tuberculosis Is Urged

A concerted campaign aimed at eradication of tuberculosis was urged by Dr. W. H. Hatfield addressing the convention of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association in Vancouver.

"More money is spent on police than on nurses. It seems more important to protect the public from bullets than from microbes, although microbes kill more people in a year than bullets ever will," he said.

Meeting at the same time were 150 delegates to the annual meeting of the State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America. Dr. J. J. Heagerty of Ottawa told them that quarantine stations could safely be abandoned.

"Ships could be boarded at the dock, and smaller quarantine units could be substituted for present stations. Money saved could be used to safeguard health of the nation in other ways," he said.

Dr. J. G. Townsend, director of health for the United States office of Indian affairs, said the Indian death rate from tuberculosis was five times as great as for whites, and the disease was 10 times as prevalent in Indian territory.

Dr. W. Council, health commissioner for Alaska, said that 21 per cent. of deaths amongst Indians and whites in his territory are caused by tuberculosis.

"The only solution for the problem is more thorough hospitalization," he said.

Wears Colors For Mourning

Addis Ababa Looks Gay But Cause Is Sorrowful

Ordinarily the women of Ethiopia wear only white. Only in case of mourning is color worn—pinks and green being the most common.

Now, owing to the casualties of war and recent disorders, many of the women of Addis are wearing colored dresses beneath their white shawls. Although the cause is sorrowful, the effect is pleasing to the eye.

Horses Shipped To Scotland

From the stables of well known breeders in Southern Alberta, 52 head of horses, Clydesdales and Percherons, left Calgary for Perth, Scotland. Several prize winners were included in the shipment. The animals brought from $165 to $250 a head. Freight and charges to destination amount to around another $100 a head.

"What do you think of Shelley?" asked the highbrow of his friend. "Don't you think he employs too many metaphors?"

"Yes," said the friend, who had no pretension to cleverness. "I think he ought to give Canadian workmen a chance sometimes."

Great Skill Required

People Who Produce Miniature Marvels Also Have Keen Eye

A new miniature marvel has recently been attracting attention—the world's tiniest steam engine, which is no bigger than a pen nib. The Hungarian who made it, says it runs perfectly. He spent many hours making it out of odd bits of metal and wire, and had to discard numerous parts which were vital fractions out.

This ingenious model is an interesting comparison with what was apparently the previous smallest of all trains. Mr. J. Martin, of Walthamstow, London, made a miniature engine and christened it Silver Jubilee; he added two coaches and a guard's van, and the whole train measured no more than four inches. This remarkable midget was built solely of gold and silver. Its creator, aged 85, inserted mechanism by which the train could travel at a rate equivalent to two and a half miles a year.

For the world's most striking working unit we must turn to Nebraska, United States, where Emanuel Kehm has devised an electric motor capable of some 500 revolutions a second, but which is small enough to rest upon a man's fingernail without overlapping it. Some of the 58 parts of the motor are made of gold, and the whole engine, weighing a quarter of an ounce, depends upon a vital link in the shape of a thin strand of cotton.

Also no larger than a fingernail are the excellent portraits drawn by a Mr. A. H. Khagiswale, of Poona, who presented a drawing to the late King George during Jubilee year. He also made such an etching for King Edward VIII.

To conceive these things an exceptionally keen eye is essential, but even greater skill is required to split a bank-note—which is a thousandth of an inch thick—in two. Yet there was a forgery charge recently against a man who did this, and even passed the two halves off as genuine, nearly getting away with it, too. There has been no other case like it in England.

But there is no doubt that where miniature marvels are concerned, the palm must be handed to Mr. Jules Chabronneau. His exhibition of 24,000 miniature objects a few months ago was the fruit of 35 years' collecting and three trips around the world.

He has the Lord's Prayer engraved on a pin head!

To Serve The Prairies

Milk Condensery Being Built At Red Deer, Alberta

Building has been started at Red Deer, Alberta, of the first milk condensery in the Prairie Provinces. The Central Alberta Dairy Pool, Alix, is initiating this enterprise and Hon. W. N. Chant, Minister of Agriculture, turned the first sod. It is expected that the condensery will be ready for operations late in July. While some of the larger dairies have condensed milk for the ice-cream trade, this is the first condensery on the prairies to put up evaporated milk for the household trade.

A Mechanical Watcher

Electric Eyes Can Detect Approach Of Enemy Aircraft

Electric "eyes" capable of "seeing" fifty miles away will keep a look-out for the approach of enemy aircraft in the next war. The mechanical watcher has been invented by a Chicago soldier-chemist, Mr. A. A. Arnheim, who is of German nationality. The "eyes" will pierce fog and smoke screens, it is claimed, and when they sight enemy aircraft they can direct fire on them.

Had Ample Proof

Doubting recent reports that a centipede swallows its young, A. E. Davis and his sons, Jack and Austin, checked up on them when they found one of the insects near Yass, Australia. When they picked it up it had a young centipede half-way down its throat. It swallowed five. The mother was five and one-half inches long and the young ones were an inch long.

You'll love the soft scarf collar that ties so fetchingly 'neath your chin, so hurry—if you'd enjoy this cape all summer! It will do equally well for a neighborly visit or a more formal occasion.

In pattern 5360 you will find complete instructions for making the cape shown; an illustration of it and of all stitches used; material requirements. Building For All Insect Parasite Investigations Is Located At Belleville

While it may be true that the character or methods of insect parasites may seem despicable, measured by human standards, the fact is that just now in Canada the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is hopeful that parasites will help to control some of the most aggravating problems with which the Dominion is presently confronted. So important do the Entomologists regard the parasites that an $85,000 building has just been built and equipped for the purpose of housing, studying and rearing them in countless numbers. This building stands a little distance back from No. 2 Highway at the eastern entrance to the city of Belleville, Ont. Its modest external appearance might not indicate that it is the most unique and up-to-date building of its kind in the world. It is to be the centre for all insect parasite investigations and work having to do with the natural or biological control of insect pests in the Dominion. The building, in some measure, is the tangible evidence of years of effort on the part of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the culmination of the thing hoped for by A. B. Baird, Entomologist in Charge of Parasite Investigations under whose immediate charge the new Parasite Laboratory will come.

The present Dominion Entomologist, Dr. Arthur Gibson, has encouraged parasite work since his appointment in 1920, and he is entitled to much of the credit for the advance that has been made since that time.

To be effective, all scientific work must make haste slowly. There is no such word as impetuosity in the lexicon of a scientist. The new parasite laboratory at Belleville is an example of this. While the biological method of control has been recognized, and to some extent applied in Canada for many years, it was not until May, 1923, that the first parasite laboratory was established at St. Thomas, Ontario, for parasite investigations.

In 1925, the parasite operations were moved to Chatham in order to be closer to the centre of the corn borer infestations, which was the counties of Kent and Essex. Gradually the value of the work began to be more widely recognized and with its wider recognition came some expansion and extension, and another move was decided upon, this time to Belleville. In 1929, the site of the present modern parasite laboratory was bought. On the site of two acres was a fine old three storey house with 20 rooms and some useful outbuildings. After a good deal of renovation and the installation of essential equipment Mr. Baird moved from Chatham with his staff, for by this time he had a modest staff. The acquisition of this property marked a definitely progressive step.

Results already attained from the work of the Parasite Laboratory have not only paid for every dollar that has been spent on the work, but what will be spent for years to come. And the work as yet is practically only in its infancy. It has been positively established that the work connected with biological control is a very definite phase of economic entomology, necessitating the development of special technique and equipment. At present there are eleven permanent trained entomologists employed at the Belleville laboratory, the majority of whom have had post graduate training on parasite research, also a number of temporary helpers.

Growing Egyptian Cotton

Four years ago an uninhabited desert, the valley of the Vakhsh river of the Tadjik Republic in 1936 will produce 120,000 acres of Egyptian cotton, according to Soviet plans. Canals have been dug to irrigate a total of nearly 40,000 acres to be populated by 30,000 inhabitants.

Bloom Is Unusual

Some of the folk around Tilbury, Ontario, are wondering if there are fairies or pixies in the bottom of Mrs. T. Craham's garden. Last year there was a gladiolus bulb with five perfect spikes of bloom on it. This year there is a peony plant with 121 flowers and buds.

Value Of Farm Manure

One Of Most Efficient Means Of Retaining Soil Fertility

Farm manure naturally constitutes a very valuable by-product on the average farm. This, however, is not always evident, judging from the lack of effort made by many farmers in getting it back to the land with the minimum of loss. Returning manure to the soil is one of the most efficient systems of maintaining soil fertility. If given proper care, it contains considerable quantity each of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in forms which readily become available for plant growth. In addition to the actual plant food contributed, manure also adds humus to the soil, improves its water holding capacity and increases very materially the bacterial life.

In order to determine the actual benefit derived from the application of manure in a regular four-year rotation, including oats, barley, clover hay and timothy hay, an experiment was started in 1925 at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario. One area was manured at the rate of sixteen tons, divided into two applications. One of eight tons being disked in for the barley crop and a second of eight tons given to the timothy meadow as a top dressing. The other area received no manure of any kind. Over a ten-year period the percentage increase for the different crops on the rotation receiving the manure was as follows: oats, 45.4; barley, 43.9; clover hay, 78.5; and timothy hay, 115.1. When the increase in yields of the various crops are valued at market prices, the cash return from the manure applied would be $1.65 per ton.

Might Solve One Problem

Good Market For Canadian Cattle Seen In Russia

Russian markets for Canadian cattle might provide one solution to the problems facing the western livestock industry, it has been suggested to Hon. W. D. Euler, federal minister of trade and commerce.

In a letter forwarded to the federal minister the suggestion was made by Jack Byers, manager of the Western Stock Growers' Association. Mr. Byers said if a contract could be reached to provide Russia with a large quantity of cattle during the present year the western ranchers would benefit extensively.

"We have," he stated, "a tremendous surplus of plain steers from the farms and first-class grass cows and heifers from the range country that would certainly suit the trade and could be delivered to the Pacific coast in competition with any country."

Just State Of Mind

Anyone Who Keeps Ideals Will Always Be Young

Youth is a state of mind—it is not a time of life. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks; it is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor. It is a freshness of the deep springs of life.

Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years.

People grow old only by deserting their ideals. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair—these are the long long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust.

You are as old as your doubt, as young as your faith; as old as your fear, as young as your self-confidence; as old as your despair, as young as your hope.—United Drug Paper.

Salt Makes Good Roads

Common Salt Makes Surface As Hard As Macadam

Common salt when used in surfacing automobile roads made of a clay-sand-gravel mixture converts its grains into countless tiny robot workmen who labor incessantly at road repairs.

The discovery of this surprising way in which the salt particles move up and down in the road to keep it moist, smooth, tough and dense was made public at Cornell University during the celebration of the semi-centennial of Sigma XI, honorary scientific society.

The salt particles convert a mass of clay, sand and gravel into a surface as hard as Macadam. How they accomplish this was a mystery until their workings were studied in the laboratory of Dr. H. Ries, professor of geology.

Rocksalt is mixed with the top three inches or more of road, with at least two pounds of salt to the square yard. The mixture is smoothed and sprinkled enough to dissolve the salt. It is rolled smooth and hard. As the surface dries it "sets" and stays hard. Rains run off without erosion.

Prizes For Feeder Shows

First Annual Event Being Held In Saskatoon This Fall

Two thousand dollars in prize money is being offered for the first annual feeder show being held in Saskatoon, September 30 to October 1, this year. Four classifications of carloads are scheduled for two-year-olds, yearlings and steer calves and heifer calves. In each of these classes prize money ranges from $150 to $25, five prizes in each class. Three groups of five are also classified with prize money from $40 to $15, and there are additional prizes throughout from breeders' associations. It is expected to draw buyers for feeder cattle from Eastern as well as Western Canada and from the United States.

Forecast New Type

Changes In Human Skull Will Make Men Different

Changes now going on in the human skull which forecast a new type of man were reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science at a meeting in Rochester, N.Y. This prediction was made in a study of ear bones described by Thomas Horace Evans, of the Long Island College of Medicine.

"There are already structural differences enough among men," said Evans, "to subdivide the human race now, whatever it may have been in the past. The evolution of man is not a question of his ancestors, but of what human ancestors he has had and to what forms he will give rise."

"It is a mistake to worry about the apes. There are now terrestrial forms of man which have animal forms of cranium, and there are changes now going on which will cause future surprise."

"The ear-bones are signs of these changes. All jaw elements are significant. The cranial changes are plainly evident. A new animal man will be found, and several lines will develop."

Think Penalty Too Severe

Canadian Fire Marshals Against Life Term For Arson

Canadian Fire Marshals in conference recently at Ottawa considered the present maximum penalty of life for arson too severe and were of the opinion a number of juries would not convict when they knew there was a possibility of the accused receiving life imprisonment.

The conference passed a resolution urging sentences should be graded in accordance with the seriousness of the crime.

Suez Canal Zone Again Centre Of World Interest As In Ages Long Past

Elmer Goes To Town

Seems That The Man On The Farm Must Go To Urban Centre To Find A Wife

There is no need for any woman, let alone a young woman, to remain an "unclaimed treasure" in Canada, the Dominion bureau, of statistics said. There are more than enough men to go round.

There is one drawback. Girls in search of husbands must go back to the farm if they want any great number to choose from and less competition. Elmer and the hired men between the ages of 20 and 25, number 198,000, while Maude and the female of the same age number only 96,000.

Country boys have to start to work early. That is one reason a higher percentage of girls from rural communities get high school and college educations than do boys with the same background. Girls become school teachers and secretaries and when the time comes for Elmer to choose a wife he has to go to town. What with the chores and all, he doesn't get to the city often even if he does own a car. So he often remains unmarried.

If he starts to court in his own locality, he finds most of the girls getting engaged to older men who find girls of their own age scarce and there are sure to be more than two single men in their earlier twenties for every marriageable girl of their own age.

When Elmer goes in his gasoline chariot to call on a "city gal" he is almost bound to run into competition from "city fellas", for men aged 20 to 25 outnumber women of the same age in cities only by 11,000 for the whole country. Also city-bred Bernice will probably be averse to country life.

Farming is reported one of the most difficult of all occupations for a bachelor and 198,000 Elmers are leading lonely bachelor lives. If young women with matrimony in view want to improve their chances, figures indicate they should specialize in milking and take a post graduate course in butter-making and leave typewriting and school teaching to women with other ambitions.

Victory For A Tree

Owner Able To Have Route For Highway Changed

Lovers of trees, whose feelings have been outraged on many occasions by the cutting down of trees along streets or highways to make way for improvements planned by people dominated by ideas of strict systematic uniformity, will find a good deal of satisfaction and pleasure in a story from the town of Maine in New York state.

In Maine lives one C. V. McGregor, distinguished as the owner of a maple tree judged to be 200 years old. The tree towers eighty feet above the roadway and its branches have a spread of sixty feet in diameter. Expert tree men have ventured the prediction that this ancient tree, healthy and strong, may add another century and a half to its span of life if fairly treated and not molested.

Unfortunately for the tree and its owner, it seems to stand dangerously in the path of "progress". When a blue print for a new highway was lately made, it showed the great tree in the space which would be covered with concrete. From an engineering, or blueprint, standpoint the obvious procedure was to cut down the tree. The owner disagreed; he held that an opposite procedure was indicated. To his credit he carried the day. The plan for the highway is to be altered and the tree is to stand.

Since the building of smooth highways for automobiles began, countless trees have been sacrificed needlessly. They have often been similarly sacrificed for buildings and other improvements. As in this instance, it may sometimes be better and possible to change the blueprint instead of cutting down a tree.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

A Peculiar Accident

A horse and an automobile were involved in a peculiar accident at Lindsay, Ont., when the animal swung its head too far to one side as the car was passing in the opposite direction. The handle on the car door speared the horse through the nose and the animal was freed only with much difficulty.

The ancient canal-like Red Sea, centre of world events from Tutankhamen down to Lawrence of Arabia, is again the stage for history-making in the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

"The tides of history, religion and culture have ebbed and flowed through the Red Sea and the countries along its hot, desert coasts since the earliest times," says the National Geographic Society.

"Mecca, on its eastern border, was the birthplace of Mohammed, founder of the Moslem religion which now counts more than 200,000,000 adherents. To this holy city hundreds of thousands of Mohammedans journey yearly. To the north is the Sinai peninsula, where the Children of Israel wandered on the way to the Promised Land, and Moses received the Ten Commandments.

"To the west is Egypt, seat of one of the oldest cultures in the world, with a history extending back more than 5,000 years; while across the Red Sea in Southern Arabia is the huge Rub al Khali desert, whose past and present alike, are practically unknown to the outside world.

"With the building of the Suez canal, the 1,200-mile length of the Red Sea became one of the earth's great commercial highways. British forces, in Egypt on the north and in Aden and British Somaliland on the south, guard it as an essential link of the trade route to India and the Orient.

"Egypt, most important of the Red Sea's hinterlands, is essentially a vast desert through which runs a narrow, fertile strip along the course of the Nile river. Of its 437,840 square miles, only 12,226 are cultivable, but most of this watered area is rich, and irrigation works are enlarging the acreage than can be farmed.

"Egypt borders the Red Sea for more than 550 miles, but has no ports of any importance on this coast. In the Arabian desert, between the coast and the Nile, are several mountain ranges, the highest rising more than 7,000 feet. Oil has been discovered in this desert. West of the Nile the vast Libyan desert, empty save for about 40,000 nomads, extends to the Italian colony of Libya.

"Four-fifths of Egypt's 14,186,898 people are of the ancient Egyptian stock, whose ancestors toiled to build the pyramids. The majority of them are farmers.

"Irrigation from the Nile is building another Dixie in the Soudan, with long staple cotton flourishing under the tropical sun. The Soudan is the home of Kipling's Fuzzy Wuzzies, of gum arabic, used to gum postage stamps and envelopes, a land of terrific sand storms, and with a sun so bright that railroad car windows are tinted to reduce the glare. Port Soudan and Souakin are the only important ports on the Soudan's hot, dry coast along the Red Sea, extending more than 460 miles from Egypt to Eritrea. They are connected by rail with Khartoum.

Great Orange Eaters

Survey Shows People Of Great Britain Like Fruit

The P. L. A. Monthly says: "In Portugal they grow oranges, and statistically minded people at Lisbon evidently take an interest in what happens to oranges when they are grown. They have compiled a world survey of the subject, and from that survey is extracted the interesting information that the inhabitants of Great Britain are, of all peoples, the most eager for oranges. The occupants of Great Britain eat 20 pounds of them a year per head of population, the people of France and Germany do not manage to reach half that amount, while the Pole absorbs only half a pound of oranges in the course of 12 months."

PATERNALISM GONE MAD

"The Federal Government have just had their Marketing Act declared unconstitutional by Supreme Court. So in order to be on the safe side, the B. C. Government immediately proceeds to pass a Marketing Act of their own, twice as stringent at anything ever known in this Province before, which goes very much further than the Federal Act did, and which in due course will naturally die the same death at the hands of the jurists. In this precious piece of legislation, the Government take upon themselves the absolute right to say what any man shall receive for his potatoes, his apples, his eggs, and every one of the things which a man can raise from the soil. And he it noted the price so set, must not be varied by one iota, either up or down. Is it surprising that people are beginning to wonder whether they will be able to call their souls their own, under such Government as this. The bricklayer or carpenter must not labour more than a certain number of hours per day and so many days per week, and for this labour his wages are fixed. But it is impossible to so fix the hours of labour or even the number of days per week of labour, which a farmer or rancher must put in, before he can be sure of getting any crop at all. Therefore if the Government cannot regulate the amount of labour necessary to produce a bushel of potatoes, by what right do they arrogate to themselves the authority to say what price he shall be paid for that bushel of potatoes?

As a matter of fact there is every reason to believe that this excess of paternalism in the matter of regulation of prices for farm produce, was hatched in the fertile brain of a cabinet Minister of not so many years ago, who saw in it a chance to provide some very comfortable jobs at good salaries for certain of his political friends, much as our own Gerry has been able to use his position as Mayor since his election. And one of those political heelers, happens to be a brother of Gerry's pet "legal adviser", the Majah. This individual who has also has a military handle to his name, tried to make a living on a farm years ago, himself, but he found the work rather hard after a few years of comfortable living in the army, and at all events he was not one of the sort who really try very hard at anything. So he foregathered one day with a certain Minister of Agriculture and suggested to him that it was time something was done to assist the poor farmer to get better prices for his produce. As it happens neither the minister nor of course the army man, ever thought of suggesting that if the farmer improved his produce, the prices would in due course rise to their own volition.

So the Cabinet Minister saw a chance to put his friend into a soft billet, to gain a little political kudos for himself, and best of all to give the Government of which he was a member a yet stronger hold over the farming population of the Province than they then held, and the first attempt at controlling the marketing thereof produce was hatched then and there, to the eternal sorrow of every practical farmer in the country. The only wonder is that the farmers have not yet attempted organised resistance to this most iniquitous flitching of their liberties. Some day they will wake up to the gross injustice of the thing, and will demand the right to sell their potatoes or their apples or their eggs as the case may be, to whom they like, when they like and at whatever price they like. In other words they will cease to be monkeys and become men".—Information.

CHAPTER XIX.

If the crowd had been in turmoil before, it was bedlam aroused now. Buzz grunted, his jaw slack. Roper gulped hard, strove to think of something, but, like a small boy caught rifling the jam closet, was nonplussed.

Not so the plucky girl. She spun around and her hand flashed to the man nearest her. A gun glinted, its blue-black barrel catching the sun's rays as she thrust its muzzle hard against Kilgo's stomach.

"You held up Link!" she cried accusingly. "Don't move or I'll kill you!"

The crowd froze. By some quirk of mob psychology it was as if she held a gun pointed at the stomach of every individual present. All eyes held on Buzz Hamilton's sister as with her glossy chestnut hair disheveled, her face white, her chest rising and falling with excitement and the exercise of the tussle, she held them spellbound with the curve of her forefinger over the trigger of the gun.

"That's Link Fleming's wallet! Why, it has his name right on it. Isn't that yours?"

"Yes."

She did not swerve her eyes from Kilgo as she spoke. "Mulrooney, you let Link free. Quickly! Seth Howland, are you in this plot to lynch an innocent man? Can't you believe now that someone held Link up?"

"It was Gyp Vaille—grab him!"

At the Star Loop owner's command Vaille whirled and started to run. Seconds ticked past without a move made to halt him. Then, uttering a guttural curse, Gus, the pink-faced bartender from the Half Moon, whipped out a gun from under his soiled apron. It cracked once and a spurt of dust rose close behind the fleeing man. Again it roared.

Vaille's arms flung up. His below of pain carried back to the stunned throng before the jail as he spun on one heel—and fell.

As if by magic the crowd began slowly to melt away. Uncertainty and puzzlement were on every face. "Yuh mean Vaille stuck Link up, took his steer money, then gave it to Kilgo? But what was Gyp doin' in the bank?"

"Chased there, maybe. I—uh—believe me, gentlemen," Otto Pieper spoke up in a voice that trembled, "I had no knowledge of that—er, miscreant's presence! But it seems Link and his men were searching the town. So Waco Byrne just informed me."

Link, free at last, looked up. Some instinct caused him to turn his head. Helen's hands flew to her throat in a gesture of fear. A path-way widened through the crowd as if by magic. And ten paces away, standing at ease but with his weight evenly distributed on both feet, waiting was . . . Jackpot Mell.

His eyes were brittle and gleaming as the jealous eyes of a wolf. He twitched a hand dangling at his side with ominous significance.

"Link," he rasped in harsh, hateful tones, "I'm waitin'!"

Fleming scarcely heard the words. He was unconscious of the ripple of gasps over the crowd, melting away. A weight made itself known, and looking down he saw in dulled surprise that someone had slipped a forty-five into his holster. Waco Byrne.

He swallowed to ease his throat, suddenly gone parched and dry. Through his brain flashed repetition of the thought he had had these last few days, that never before had he faced an opponent so quick as Jackpot Mell. Seven men had gone to their death at the roar of his flaming gun. Would he be number eight?

Strangely, he felt no fear, but a great calmness. And overpowering curiosity as to what was going to happen. Cool, his eyes fixed unwaveringly on Mell's whole six-foot gaunt figure until they became hot, and he blinked. The wait seemed to lengthen into years. In reality it could not have been more than ten seconds.

Jackpot's right hand moved. With the speed of a streak of light the Star Loop owner plunged for his gun. As he fired he knew with chagrin that Mell had drawn first by the margin of a clipped second. He felt a hot, jabbing sensation in his left shoulder, heard his sixgun roar its second time as Jackpot fired again and again. Then staggering from the collision of slug and flesh, Link whirled and fell.

But he was not out. He tightened his hard fingers around the Colt and jerked onto his left elbow. His paining eyes sought desperately to focus on his enemy.

Mell was a mere heap of clothing in the dust.

There was a split second's pause as all eyes fixed on the burly rancher hurriedly stuffing the packet of bills in a brown pigskin wallet back into his torn shirt.

"That's our cattle money!" Fleming roared.

"Link! Link!" Helen started toward him but suddenly halted, and vivid new fear sprayed across her face.

For Roper Kilgo, his florid countenance deeper crimson than ever before, had been the first man to the side of Jackpot. Now he straightened, and a bull-like roar of fury burst from his fat lips. His hand jabbed for his gun. Whipping it out, he fired.

Wham! The first shot spewed dust into Fleming's face and eyes. All but blinded, he was gripped by red rage at the cowardly tactics. With a great effort he climbed dazedly erect and retreated. Sighting hurriedly, he sent a bullet timed to the nth degree with Kilgo's second shot.

An Interesting Document

Shows Generosity Of Indian Chiefs To British Major

After 156 years a document signed by 11 Indian Chiefs giving 5,000 acres upon which part of the city of Detroit, Michigan, now stands to Mayor Arent Schuyler De Peyster, British commandant to Detroit in 1780, for nothing, has been returned there.

Two Detroiters, who wish to remain anonymous, purchased the document from Maggs Bros., London dealers in rare books and manuscripts, and brought it back home.

Detroit citizens felt that the bargain white men made when they got the Island of Manhattan from the Indians for $24 was bettered here with the deed to 5,000 acres free.

The Indian chiefs who made the land over to Major De Peyster, each drew a picture to represent his name or tribal sign, the pictures representing birds, deer, arrows, wigwams. One of them looks much like a recumbent insect, if that term can be applied to a bug helplessly waving its legs in the air.

The transfer took place before Detroit became American territory and in the midst of the revolutionary war. Whoever made out the conveyance, however, must have been skilled in the parlance of law, for he apparently gave poor Indians no loophole to which they might take back their gift. One line of the contract mentions about all the lands rights in existence and even some that might crop up in the future.

Major Arent Schuyler De Peyster was an American Tory from New York City with an admixture of French blood. He is described by George Catlin in "The Story of Detroit" as "an accomplished man and social favorite," his American and French origins, however, prejudiced him in the eyes of Britain, and he lost the Detroit post.

Going to Dumfries, Scotland, he drilled soldiers for the Napoleonic wars. One of his recruits was Robert Burns, to whom he showed unusual kindness during the poet's last illness. It is said Burns' last poem was addressed to De Peyster as a result.

Not Opposed To Television

American Publishers Do Not Think Broadcasting Will Take The Place Of Newspapers

Elisha Hanson, general counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, told the communications commission at Washington he did not believe that at present television or facsimile (still photograph) broadcasting would take the place of newspapers.

The 400 newspapers which he represents, he said, are not opposed to "facsimile or television because either or both might compete with newspapers."

Appearing before the commission which is conducting a fact-finding investigation into the future of radio, A. H. Kirchoffer, managing editor of the Buffalo Evening News and vice-president of a radio station owned by the newspaper, said television "could not hurt newspapers" but would be used "to supplement newspaper service."

R. D. Lemert, vice-president of the De Forrest Television Corporation of Hollywood, Calif., told the commission that he and Dr. Lee De Forrest had been actively experimenting with television for several years and asserted they now could transmit "from 240 square inches and flow up to 600 square inches per minute at a normal speed on a facsimile picture."

Under questioning, he said this would equal 12,500 words a minute.

Lead Poisoning Dangerous

All Painted Articles Should Be Kept From Children

Confirming the report of Dr. J. R. Ross, of the Hospital for Sick Children, at the Canadian Chemical convention, Niagara Falls, that several Toronto babies have died recently from lead poisoning after biting painted articles, Dr. Alan Brown, chief physician at the Hospital for Sick Children, expressed the belief that there were many more cases than are recognized.

"We usually have half a dozen or more cases a year," Dr. Brown explained. His warning was that people with babies in the home should keep them away from painted articles, even the woodwork, and should pay attention to the paint on cribs.

Lead poisoning from paint causes lead encephalitis, or inflammation of the brain tissue. "The lead gets into the blood stream, then into the brain, and even into the bones," said Dr. Brown. "You can detect it in the bones by the X ray, and it stays there for years."

Home-painted articles are particularly dangerous for young children, Dr. Brown emphasized.

"Quite often 60 per cent. of the paint used around homes is made up of lead. It is often on cribs and carriages, and the baby bites it and sucks the rungs, especially during teething periods. They eat the paint from the sides of their beds, even the window sills and the paint off their toys. Only baked-enamel articles are safe."

The main symptoms of lead encephalitis are convulsions, Dr. Brown explained. "Whenever we have a case of encephalitis now we examine them for lead poisoning in the brain."

Seeks Fame And Fortune

Chinese Boy Earning Way To Hollywood In Original Manner

Consider the case of Eng Wing Koon, hanger-by-the pigtail extraordinary, who seeks to make fame and fortune in Hollywood.

Koon is crossing the continent by swinging from his pigtail, dangling in chosen spots, that is, to gather money and pay his way to choice hanging scenes further west.

He learned the art in New York, he told state police at Bloomingdale, N.J., who were so naive as to question his travel technique.

All he needed was a soap box to stand on until he got his pigtail tied to an overhead lamp-post or tree limb, he explained.

He hung by his pigtail for about five minutes in Bloomingdale, then lowered himself to the ground and started passing the hat.

The inquisitive state police took him to the county jail at Boonton and asked their colleagues in New York about him.

"Hold him," came the reply. "We are looking for some Chinese murderers."

But Eng was no murderer. The police contacted his father at 70 Bayard street and learned that Eng, far from being a fugitive, sought the limelight of publicity.

So the police gave him a free night's lodging. He proceeded to pigtail his way to Hollywood.

Used On Emergency Issue

Head Of Baden-Powell Once Appeared On Postage Stamp

Lord Baden-Powell, now in his 80th year, has one claim to fame which most of his Boy Scouts don't know about, says London Answers. He is the only living Englishman not of royal blood whose portrait has appeared on a postage stamp. It was during the siege of Mafeking. All the stamps had been used and no portrait of Queen Victoria was available from which new ones could be prepared. So, without consulting "B.P." an emergency issue was made on which his head had been reproduced.

Plans have been submitted for spiral roadways around the Eiffel Tower in Paris to enable automobiles to climb to a restaurant on the second platform, about 400 feet above street level.

England is experimenting with a new variety of hops, which is expected to be especially suited for brewing stout.

A Question Of Luck

Dionne Sisters Have Fortune While Other Children Lack Necessities

Doubtless Dr. Allan Daffoe deserves the fame which has accrued to him through his successful treatment of the Dionne quintuplets. Film producers are not to be unduly censured if they esteem it profitable to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars in the future earning capacity of the five over-publicized infants.

Is there not, however, a question of values here, the kind of question which breeds skepticism in the intelligent young? A current news item refers to "the thousands of people who made unselfish offers of help to the babies in the early days." Those "unselfish offers" indicate a laudable condition of human sympathy. They also indicate the disproportionate generosity of an emotional mob.

Five infants receive wealth such as their parents never dreamed of possessing, simply as a reward for being born. "Neither the babies nor the rest of the Dionne family need worry about their normal requirements for the rest of their lives," announces the Ontario Minister of Welfare. Whether that is fundamentally beneficial remains to be proved. Everyone will agree that it is good to feel financially secure. No need to be apprehensive about the supply of the quintuplets.

Yet—there's a brave little youngster at the corner of Main Street, a lad of twelve, who trudged about in a pair of sneakers in the middle of winter, running errands and shoveling snow after school hours, who would like to go to college some day, but probably won't be able to finish high school. A child with an intellect, his teachers say, a child who should have an opportunity. His mother is a widow, and he has two younger sisters.

There's another child on Main Street—a girl of seven, delicate-featured, with a far too solemn expression in her gray eyes. Her parents are educated, but they are "on relief," and it's very cold when there's no fuel to light the kitchen stove. The last time it was lighted the mother made all the flour they had into doughnuts, which the little girl hawked around the neighborhood.

Sometimes the little boy and the little girl wonder why no "unselfish offers" from a sentimental public come showering down on them. It was a mistake to come singly. They should have come in fives.—Christian Science Monitor.

A Valuable Collection

Stamps Belonging To Late King George Worth Small Fortune

King Edward has directed that there should be no relaxation on the part of Sir Edward Bacon, curator of King George's stamp collection, in maintaining the standard of the wonderful collection King George built up, states the London Daily Sketch. From the point of view of Empire examples, it has not a parallel. It was a hobby in which King George found much pleasure and wherever he went for a protracted stay—at Balmoral, Sandringham or Windsor—books of his stamps went too. The Royal hobby was known all over the world, and many additions to the collection were due to the thoughtfulness of fellow collectors in other countries. As an example, when the day and night air mail service across the United States was opened, R. H. Willcox, head of the post-office division of the Customs House, himself a stamp collector, thought of the King, and sent a letter by the first mail for his Majesty. The value of the Royal collection is stated to be several thousand pounds.

Aims At Complete Record

A complete pictorial record of every Indian tribe on the continent will soon be undertaken by Winold Reiss, artist and designer of Montreal. Mr. Reiss, an authority on customs and arts of the North American Indian, has spent much of his life studying the tribe of Indians known as the Blood or Piegiens of Alberta.

A gold nugget weighing slightly more than five pounds—one of the largest, if not the largest ever found in the North Transvaal—is reported to have been found by a young prospector named J. J. Baker. The find was valued at $2,500.

Little Helps For This Week

Turn ye to the stronghold, ye prisoners of hope. Zech. 9:12.

O power to do; O baffled will; O prayer and action, ye art one. Who may not strive may yet fulfill
The harder task of standing still, And good but wished with God is done.

That God has circumscribed our life may add a peculiar element of trial, but often it defines our way and cuts off many tempting possibilities that perplex the free and strong; while it leaves intact the whole body of spiritual reality "that if we know these things, happy are we if we do them." We know that God orders the lot, and to meet it with the energies it requires, and permits neither more or less, to fill it at every available point with the light and action of an earnest mind even if this action be narrowed, is what in that condition we have to do.

No Necessity For Speeding

Time Gained Is Usually Not Worth Thinking About

There is no necessity for people to be rushing about the province at 50 miles and more per hour. In Great Britain the Pedestrians' Association, has set a flinty face against speeding, and is clamoring for a country-wide speed limit.

Most of the road accidents there as here are due to speeding, and the association examined the circumstances of a large number of accidents due to this cause. It found that the time sought to be gained was usually a matter of a few seconds. We in Manitoba can be equally certain that 90 per cent. of the speeding on our highways lacks any legitimate excuse. — Winnipeg Tribune.

Evidently Had Good Appetite

Queen Elizabeth Enjoyed Meal Of Pork And Peas

Reference is made in the June issue of "The P.L.A. Monthly" to "The London Tavern" in the City; it dates from Plantagenet times and began as "The King's Head."

"Queen Elizabeth left her forced sojourn in the Tower of London in May, 1554, four years before she ascended to the throne, and on her way to Richmond went into the old church of Allhallows Staining (near the site of the Tavern) to offer thanks for her deliverance from captivity, and then went to 'The King's Head' where she ate a solid meal of pork and peas. The metal dish and cover used on the occasion are treasured at 'The London Tavern' today."

Rest And Change

Man Must Follow Nature's Example To Do Best Work

The earth itself teaches us the necessity of rest and change. During the snows and frost of winter it lies dormant. In rest it gathers force for the rejuvenating processes of spring. We must follow the earth's example, and gather force in rest and recreation, or we can no more go on growing and gaining in strength and power than it could go on producing the grains and fruits and vegetables of summer and autumn without an annual rest.

Knew Human Nature

Disraeli Had Method Of Greeting Followers In House

Disraeli confessed that, although he was always forgetting their faces and never remembering their names, he had no difficulty in being pleasant to his followers in the House. "When I meet anybody in the lobby whom I don't know from Adam, and I see he expects me to know who he is, I take him warmly by the hand, look straight into his eyes, and say: 'And how is the old complaint?' I have never known it to fail."

FLEMING'S FOLLY
— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

His arms were firmly bound behind him. Mell, his usually mask-like face lined with revengeful hate, jostled close. "Yuh low down snake!" he snarled. "I'd've killed yuh, Fleming—I was lookin' for yuh an hour back. But this'll do just as well. Maybe better. Turned bank robber, eh? Well, you ain't gettin' away with it!"

"Where's Stephen?" someone asked. "Out o' town. We better hurry before he gets back!"

The lariat threaded through the iron ring fell and struck the rancher's shoulder. Eager hands seized it and fixed the noose. "Gyp, you tie this to yore saddle. When I give the word—ride!"

Then he saw Gyp Vaille. Link started. His eyes went round and he gasped. For Gyp Vaille, the trouble maker at the dam, he who was Kilgo's henchman, was dressed in a dark checkered shirt and corduroy trousers. Gyp Vaille had been with Berrens in that holdup!

A moment of quiet descended on the throng. Main Street was packed with men in a fifty-yard circle from the pole. Heads kept bobbing up, angry faces bearing the bitter imprint of aroused hate and grim determination to carry this through. There seemed no help, no chance to explain. It must be eleven-thirty or more. At twelve Roper would own the Triple H.

At twelve . . . Link's heart sank. At twelve he would be swinging lifeless from the flagpole.

"All set there?"

Gyp swung a heavy thigh over his saddle. He picked up the reins and gestured for men to move out of his path. The rope stretched from the noose around Fleming's neck to the eye at the pole top, thence to the saddle horn of the tawny roan.

"I'm ready," Vaille growled.

"Then string him 'up!" yelled Kilgo.

"WAIT!"

A lithe, lissome figure burrowed through the crowd. With outflung hands Helen Hamilton snatched the bridle of Vaille's horse and stopped the beast as it took a step forward. Before anyone could prevent her, she plunged to Link's side, twelve feet away. Something gleamed in the sunlight and there was a quick swish of a knife. The rope close above his mass of brown hair snapped and fell on his shoulder.

"He's not guilty!" the girl cried, and threw herself in front of him. "Men, this is murder—cold-blooded murder! You shan't do this to—"

A curse drowned her last words. Kilgo reached for her arm to jerk her away, but missed. His fist knocked the knife from her hand and sent it spinning into the dust.

Helen backed, against Link spreading her arms protectively. But Roper, his face aflame, grabbed at her. "Get away from there!" he commanded, and tugged roughly. "We're goin' to lynch that lobo and yuh can't stop it!"

She struggled to get free of him. Link, tussling with his bonds, watched in helpless rage. Suddenly there came the sharp sound of cloth tearing. By chance Helen had ripped the Box 50 owner's grey flannel shirt. Something green was exposed—and Roper, sensing it, put his hands to the spot and glanced down.

Helen uttered a gasp. "Wh-why, it's money!" She shot a swift look at Link.

There was a split second's pause as all eyes fixed on the burly rancher hurriedly stuffing the packet of bills in a brown pigskin wallet back into his torn shirt.

"That's our cattle money!" Fleming roared.

NEEDLECRAFT
Is your interest in gardening on the lag these days, what with the heat and the prevalence of weeds and nothing to watch burst into bloom? The heat too, does something to one's interest in things literary. Indeed it is difficult to settle down to anything of an evening after a hard, hot day over the stove getting the fruit done up, or is it "down". But now is the time to think ahead to those lovely cool autumn days when a knitting suit or sweater coat is just the thing for the in-between season. And of course there is always Christmas to look ahead to. Why not start now with something hand-made for that hard-to-please aunt or cousin. Here are a few books with all sorts of new ideas that will make you fairly rush thru your housework just to get down to them.

"Stitchcraft" is an English magazine which we bind and circulate in book form. It pictures the finished garment, often in color and gives diagrams and complete instructions. This one specializes in knitting, but also includes embroidering and crocheting, not to mention several clever recipes in each number. The "Fancy Needlework" another English magazine, which includes more crocheting and embroidered suggestions. D. C. Minter's "Modern Needlecraft" is an up to date book which the editor tells us is a compilation by the foremost exponents of needlework in Great Britain. Certainly it is an outstanding work, extremely practical, with detailed text and ample pictures and diagrams.

Marjorie Tilston's "Complete Knitting Book" was published in 1933, so that its patterns are not so frightfully old-fashioned as to put one off wearing knitted things for good as do so many books of this type. It will prove an acceptable guide to both the amateur and the experienced knitter, including as it does pattern and easy-to-follow diagrams for knitting every garment for man, woman, and child. Of course the library has many other good books on the subject but these are newest and most outstanding.

White Leghorn birds entered in Canadian egg-laying contests by F. C. Evans are being very successful. Two pens at Lethbridge stand in first and third place, one pen being high for 18 successive weeks. In the Ottawa contest, the local breeder's birds have moved up rapidly to seventh place, and last week were second highest for the week; at Agassiz and Sydney Evans' birds were first for the week.

Mrs. E. Burns and Mrs. H. Henderson are holidaying at White Rock. The Tucker family have moved into Copping's house, formerly occupied by Dr. Trethewey.

Taylor is an experienced evangelist capable and energetic.

His wife and daughter Glaphre, his son Roger and wife make up the party. You will hear more from them later.

Dr. J. W. Goodwin active senior general superintendent will visit B. C. to survey the field. He will arrive at Abbotsford via Sumas July 30th, leaving here Saturday August 1st. He will spend some time in Vancouver, Cloverdale Victoria, Chilliwack, Mission and other points. There were upwards of 4100 delegates and visitors at the assembly which is by far the largest yet held. There was a marked accord of the assembly on all the major issues of the church.

The program of the church has been enlarged in practically every department. At the last general assembly in 1932, there were reported 93,035 church members, this year there were reported 130,353, a gain of 37,268, which is a little more than forty per cent gain for the four years.
